Abstract: There are not many studies done on the guidelines that must be followed when an appointment for a new Aborigine tribe leader is to be implemented. Besides customary laws, there are also legal guidelines that must be adhere to. So, the present study purpose looks into the implementation of both customary law and the Aboriginal People Act 1954 in the issue of appointment of Tok Batin Orang Asli Jakun in Bekok, Segamat. A series of interviews were carried out for this fundamental study. Related information from books, articles, magazines, previous studies are used and supported by various case study and legal provision. The main findings are both customary law and the Aboriginal People Act 1954 complement each other and there is no contradiction between them. The Act provides the general application of appointment of a Tok Batin while the customary law discusses on the qualification, vote system, the ceremony to welcome the new Tok Batin and others. The study contributes to information about legal and customary procedures when appointing a selected Aborigine tribe leader.

Introduction

Article 169 of Convention On Aboriginal People And Free Nation, International Labour Organization define ‘aboriginal people’ as a community that has a different lifestyle as compared to the majority of the society in terms of social, culture and economy. This community is also concerned with their traditional way of life.

In Malaysia, the word ‘Orang Asli’ (aboriginal people) comes from a Malay word that means ‘the first people’. They are a minority in society and usually live in remote areas (Nicholas, 1996). Article 160 of the Federal Constitution defines ‘Orang Asli’ as aboriginal people who lives in Peninsular Malaysia. Section 3 of Aboriginal Peoples Act 1954 defines Orang Asli as any person whose male parent is or was, a member of an aboriginal ethnic group, who speaks an aboriginal language and habitually follows an aboriginal way of life and aboriginal customs and beliefs, and includes a descendant through males of such persons.

The term ‘orang asli’ (aboriginal people) in Malaysia can be categorized into two groups. The first category refers to the aboriginal people who live in Peninsular Malaysia and the other category refers to aboriginal people who live in East Malaysia, which are Sabah and Sarawak (Rohaida et al, 2013). The number of the aboriginal communities have increased annually. Basic First Quarter Data 2018 from the Ministry of Rural Development records that as at 31 October 2018, there are 179,197 Orang Asli in Peninsular Malaysia. The state that has the highest number of Orang Asli is Pahang, which is 67,506, followed by Perak 53,299 and Selangor 17,587. The state of Johor has 13,139 Orang Asli and they live in the districts of Batu Pahat, Pontian, Kota Tinggi and Segamat.

Officially, there are eighteen Orang Asli tribes that can be categorized under three main groups based on their genetics and origin. The first group is the Semang/Negrito tribe (lives in the Northern states of Peninsular Malaysia), the Senoi tribe (lives in the central states of Peninsular Malaysia) and the Proto Malay/Melayu Asli tribe (lives in the southern states of Peninsular Malaysia) (Chua, Kim Wah Michael, 1991). The language that they use is Bahasa Orang Asli (Austroasiatic Language) and Bahasa Melayu Asli (Austronesia Language). Several beliefs that they follow are such as Animism, Christianity, Islam, Hinduism dan Buddha (Chong Sheat Seang, 1997). In Segamat, this study is carried out at the district of Bekok which is part of the Selai-Endau-Rompin National Park. There are six aboriginal people villages here and they are Kampung Orang Asli Tembayan, Kampung Orang Asli Kudong, Kampung Orang Asli Tamok, Kampung Orang Asli Komedak, Kampung Orang Asli Selai and Kampung Orang Asli Lenek. The majority of the people living in these villages are from the Orang Asli Jakun tribe. The aboriginal people tribes practice a variety of rituals, culture, customs, beliefs, and a healthy way of life that is unique. They lead a harmonious and high-quality lifestyle alongside nature. This is because their economic survival is dependent on natural resources. This practice is largely due to the influence of Mother Nature and practices that they inherit from their forefathers (Faezah Kassim, et.al 2017).

Tok Batin is the chief of the tribe for a particular village and thus respected by all aboriginal people in that community. There is one Tok Batin for each village in Bekok. The appointment of each Tok Batin is in accordance with the customary law of the Jakun Tribe. This law is past down from one generation to the next generation. At the same time the Malaysian government has legislated Aboriginal People Act 1954 specifically in Section 16 and Section 19(1)(c) as a guideline for the appointment of Tok Batin. The aim of this study is to look into the implementation of both customary law and the Aboriginal People Act 1954 in the issue of appointment of Tok Batin Orang Asli Jakun in Bekok, Segamat.

Literature review

The head of an aboriginal tribe is known as Tok Batin. He has the highest ranking in the administrative hierarchy of the aboriginal people. This significant position is usually inherited from the paternal side which is from the father to the son or grandson or even to the great grandson. The role of Tok Batin is important in upholding all matters pertaining to rules, culture, and the traditional way of life for the Orang Asli under his care. Asmawi (2013) on the aboriginal people in Gua Musang, he stated that the roles of a Tok Batin in a community are (i) a person to refer to when having problems (ii) a person who can offer solutions (iii) a person that takes care of the welfare of his people in terms of health, medicine, marriage and divorce. However nowadays, the influence of Tok Batin has increases since it also includes socio economy, education and safety. Dato’ Ibrahim Bin Muhammad, Head Director of Jabatan Kemajuan Malaysia (2011) mentioned that the role and duty of Tok Batin includes other social tasks such as preparing the profile of his village, registration of birth and death, registration of marriage, preparing reports on the visits of government officers, the migration of non-aboriginal people to the villages, report of programmes conducted by JAKOA and to report any current issues to state JAKOA Director on a monthly basis.

Due to the importance of this position, the government has taken the initiative to standardize the appointment of Tok Batin legally by providing the relevant Act and guidelines. This is to ensure that this position is kept respected, obeyed, and always honoured by the community. At the same time, it provides special rights to the Tok Batin in administering his people with full responsibility and dedication. With this power and authority, the community can claim their rights to their Tok Batin if he does not perform his duty well.

Itam Wali Nawan (1993) stated that there are two methods that can be applied during the process of appointing a Tok Batin, namely by the way of inheritance and/or by vote. The method of inheritance can be implemented when the eldest son of a Tok Batin is appointed as the new Tok Batin as soon as the death of a former Tok Batin occurs. If the deceased Tok Batin does not have any male children, this position will be offered to male siblings and/or nephews. In a situation where nobody is qualified to be appointed as Tok Batin, then other aboriginal people may be appointed as Tok Batin even if he has no blood relation with the deceased Tok Batin (William-Hant, 1993).

The appointment of a Tok Batin can also happen by way of voting. Generally, those who has leadership character, has many supporters and are well liked by the community has the potential to be appointed as a Tok Batin (Redzuan & Emby, 2008). However, the government, through Jabatan Kemajuan Orang Asli (JAKOA) under the Kementerian Pembangun LuarBandar has taken the initiative in improving the procedures of appointing a Tok Batin by legally providing a guideline which can be applied in general by the aboriginal people in Malaysia. The guideline is named as The Guideline on Procedure of Appointment and Termination of The Service of Tok Batin/Penghulu Orang Asli. Apart from that, there is Section 16 and Section 19(1)(c) of Aboriginal People Act 1954 which mentions that the Minister has the authority to appoint a Tok Batin.

These two legal authorities are legislated in such a way as not to deny the appointment of a Tok Batin which is implemented using the conventional method. In fact, this effort can help to standardize the system and make clear the procedures on how a Tok Batin can be appointed legally. Clearly, with the guidelines introduced by JAKOA in the appointment of a Tok Batin, they would prefer to appoint a candidate that is young, educated and has the potential to perform his duty well. At the same time, priority should be given to a candidate that has sufficient knowledge on his own culture and traditional ways.

Legally, Section 16 and Section 19(1)(c) of Aboriginal People Act 1954 as well as The Guideline on Procedure of Appointment and Termination of The Service of Tok Batin/Penghulu Orang Asli guideline will be further discussed below. In conclusion, both legal provisions and the customary law are implemented concurrently in the appointment of Tok Batin. It is suggested that for future research, a study on the appointmen ten of a new Tok Batin who is not a direct descendant of the deceased Tok Batin is carried out. What will happen if there are no eligible direct descendant? Who can be appointed as Tok Batin if all direct descendant are not qualified for the post.

Methodology

A series of interviews has been carried out with a senior Tok Batin whose name is Baya bin Maja. He is the present head of Kampung Kemidak, Bekok, Segamat, Johor. He is 82 years old and has been appointed as the Tok Batin for more than twenty years. The interviews are carried out at his house over the period of several months from January to October 2019. This study is open-ended in nature as the interview is categorized as an unstructured interview whereby there is no specific set of predetermined questions. Even though so, the interviewers do have selected topics in mind that they wish to cover during the interview. Related information from books, articles, magazines, previous studies are used and supported by various case study and legal provision.

Discussion

The appointment of Tok Batin under Aboriginal People Act 1954 (Akta 134) Section 16 and Section 19 Aboriginal People Act 1954 (Akta 134)

Section 16 and Section 19 Aboriginal People Act 1954 (Akta 134) is related to the appointment of a Tok Batin. The sections provides as below:

“Section 16(1): the hereditary headman of an aboriginal community shall be the headman thereof or, in the case of an aboriginal community in which the office of the headman is not hereditary, a person selected to be headman by the members of the community shall be headman thereof, subject in each case to confirmation by the Minister”.

“Section 16(2): the Minister may remove any headman from his office. Aborigines not to be excluded from any school”.

“Section 19(1): the Minister may make regulations for carrying into effect the purpose of this Act and in particular for the following purposes: (c) providing for the appointment of, and prescribing the qualifications of and the methods of appointing, any headman”.

Both provisions do not mention on the qualifications and the importance of the position of a Tok Batin. What can be construed under Section 16 is that there are two methods of appointment of headman or Tok Batin. The first method is by inheritance from the paternal side of Tok Batin and the second method is by not inheritance, where the community appoint among them, the most credible person through a voting system (Amat Simin, 2015). This appointment however is not final because the Minister has to approve the candidate that has been chosen to be a Tok Batin. Subsection 2 provides that the Minister has the power to terminate the Tok Batin if he is unable to attain the specific criteria. Again, Section 19(1)(c) of the same Act empowered the Minister to determine the qualification and the method of appointment of Tok Batin. This general provision also gives authority to a subordinate body such as Kementerian Kemajuan Luar bandar Dan Wilayah Malaysia, Jabatan Kemajuan Orang Asli (JAKOA), Majlis Pengurusan Komuniti Kampung Orang Asli (MPKKOA) and other authorities to come out with a framework or guidelines that discuss the appointment method in more detail. Among others, Jabatan Kemajuan Orang Asli JAKOA has emerged with a manual: Guideline On The Procedure of Appointment And Termination of Tok Batin/Penghulu Orang Asli 2011.

Guidelines of Appointment and Termination of Tok Batin / Penghulu of Aborigine 2011

This guideline is actually the continuity of Section 19(1)(c) of Aboriginal People Act 1954 which allows the Minister to determine several matters on the issue of a Tok Batin’s appointment including the legal requirement to be in that position. The guideline came into effect in 2011. The objective of the guideline is to clarify the way a Tok Batin can be appointed as well as to be terminated. The guideline is applied in parallel with Aboriginal People Act 1954.

Several aspects are discussed clearly in this guideline where it concurred the need of a Tok Batin in a particular area, appointment method, condition of appointment, appointment process and things that can disqualify a Tok Batin from his job.

Conditions that meet the Need of a Tok Batin in Particular Area – Clause 3

Guidelines of Appointment and Termination of Tok Batin / Penghulu of Aborigine 2011

For a new village that needs their first Tok Batin, the village must be occupied by at least 200 people. For an older village that may have less than 200 people, the need for a new Tok Batin appointment will be decided by the Minister.

Appointment Method – Clause 4

Guidelines of Appointment and Termination of Tok Batin / Penghulu of Aborigine 2011

Clause 4 mentioned about the appointment method. The Tok Batin will be appointed in two ways, either by descendant or by election. In the same clause, ‘appointment by descendant’ means that a direct descendant can be appointed if and when the candidate fulfilled the conditions and terms as required by the customary law. Candidates for the post of a Tok Batin may come from the nearest male family member of the late Tok Batin. This includes his son/s, his male sibling/s, his uncle/s and his nephew/s. Clause 4.1.2 stated that Tok Batin can only be selected by an election process when there is no qualified direct male descendant but there are several qualified candidates from among the people living in the same village.

Appointment Conditions – Clause 5

Fifth (v), at least the candidate can speak, write and read in Malay Language and is well versed with his tribe’s tradition and finally sixth (vi), the Tok Batin candidate has never been terminated or resigned from Tok Batin’s position and must be free from any criminal records.

Clause 6.8 stated that there is a need for the district JAKOA officer to supervise and prepare a report about the Tok Batin’s election process to JAKOA’s Director of State by using the specific format that indicates the type of appointment of the new Tok Batin which is either by descendant or by election. Later, the Director will come out with the election report and will give his comments about the election process and result. This report will be submitted to the Director General of JAKOA Malaysia within 5 days.

Clause 6.11 stated that the selected candidate for the Johor state needs to get a royal blessing from His Royal Higness The Sultan of Johor. Clause 6.12 then stated that the Director General of JAKOA Malaysia will acknowledge the proposal of the appointment of the Tok Batin by signing the ‘Letter of Appointment’. This letter will then be given to the state JAKOA officer, then to the district JAKOA officer before it is given to the newly appointed Tok Batin.

At the same time, the new Tok Batin will need to sign a Letter of Undertaking. This letter will then be given to the state JAKOA director for record keeping purposes. Next clause mentioned that the appointed Tok Batin will be given an Authority Card and this card needs to be surrendered to the district JAKOA officer when the Tok Batin’s appointment period ends either through his death or termination.

Clause 10.1 stated that a Tok Batin Termination Committee will be formed if there is a need to terminate a Tok Batin. This committee will be chaired by the State JAKOA Director where the District JAKOA Officer shall be the secretary of the committee. Committee members shall be from

According to Jakun Tribe Custom and Law at Bekok, Segamat, the appointment of Tok Batin can be done either by descendant or by election. The appointment by descendant means the Tok Batin post is inherited generation to generation. Traditionally, the eldest son of the late Tok Batin will be chosen to become the next Tok Batin. If he has no sons, his first male nephew can be chosen too. On the other hand, appointment by election vote is when the community decide who is going to be the next Tok Batin. However, the appointment by election or democracy is only applicable if the appointment by descendant is impossible due to no suitable and eligible candidates are available.

From an interview carried out with Tok Baya, he confirmed that the appointment of Tok Batin Kampung Kemidak is done by descendant and by election simultaneously. If a Tok Batin passed away or his appointment terminated, his sons and his male nephews will be nominated for the Tok Batin post. The candidates will then be introduced to the community and the election process will be carried out. The community will be looking for the best candidate that they believe can serve them well in the future. Candidate with the highest number of votes will be officially appointed as their new Tok Batin. The appointment will then be informed to JAKOA for validation.

This appointment can only be deemed valid when permission is granted by the Sultan or Malay Kings (through District Officer and JAKOA officer). Previously, a newly appointed Tok Batin will be given an appointment certificate, badge and red head cloth as a sign of their appointment. Tok Baya said that for a Tok Batin’s appointment in Johor, he will be given a staff (tongkat), a pair of Baju Melayu, a songkok and a pair of shoes. All these gifts are considered as a royal gift to the appointed Tok Batin. After that, a thanksgiving ceremony will be held to introduce the newly appointed Tok Batin to the community. Tok Batin will give his first speech, introducing himself, explaining his manifesto and his plan towards the development and welfare of his community within his jurisdiction. The ceremony will end with a banquet and rituals lead by their religious and custom figures of the community.

The nominees of Tok Batin must have caliber and strong leadership characters (interview with Tok Baya, 2019). Tok Baya is appointed as Tok Batin because of his leadership capabilities. At the age of 18, he was already appointed as an UMNO leader in his original village and on that reason, he became more popular because he frequently represents the aborigine community to fight for aborigine rights and facility development such as clean water and electricity supply, road lighting, subsidized home and everything else. His leadership continues when he got married and moved to Kampung Kemidak. His friendly and caring attitude was very appreciated by the villagers. Because of his good attitude and character, he was among 5 nominees nominated when the previous Tok Batin passed away. He was nominated by the late Tok Batin’s wife who is also his aunt on his wife’s side. After he was appointed, he has proven to his community over and over again that he is a just administrator and always put his tribe’s welfare as top priority. Besides that, he has adopted five children and raise them as his very own children. He is very supportive on the government’s efforts to develop and modernized his community such as in the areas of education, entrepreneurship, economy and socio-society. Every information that he gets from the meetings, or conferences held by the government will be communicated to every single villager in his community under his jurisdiction at Kampung Kemidak, Bekok.

Apart from Kampung Kemidak, Kampung Kudong has also appointed their Tok Batin by the election process. Tok Batin Asoi is Kampung Kudong’s present Tok Batin. He has no blood relationship with the previous Tok Batin who passed away due to old age. However, he was nominated by the villagers to be among the five candidates because of his contributions and involvement in various local activities like sending villagers to the nearest hospital using his own vehicles and give donations for those in need in his community. (Tok Asoi 2019)

According to Tok Baya, the appointment of all five Tok Batins in the five respective villages at Bekok are the same as what is practiced at Kampung Kemidak. The appointment by descendant and election is still being practiced until today. However, the appointment by descendant is still a priority. Clearly the Aborigine People Act 1954 and Custom Law and also the enlightenment by the Guidelines of Appointment and Termination of Tok Batin / Penghulu of Aborigine 2011-JAKOA is still being practiced in harmony and the main reference on any Tok Batin appointment and termination in the aborigine community at Bekok, Segamat.

Conclusion
To ensure this important position is respected, the government has prepared the details and specific laws regarding the appointment of Tok Batin through Aborigine People Act 1954 and Guidelines of Appointment and Termination of Tok Batin / Penghulu of Aborigine 2011. Consequently, the appointment that is made legally is respected by the local community. Section 16(1) in the same Act stated that the appointment of Tok Batin can be done either by descendant or by election, where somebody with the character, caliber and leadership will have the majority vote to be appointed as Tok Batin. These 2 ways of appointment is in line with the Custom Law implemented at Bekok, Segamat. Furthermore, this Custom Law stated more specific details regarding the qualification, celebration ritual for the newly appointed Tok Batin, period of Tok Batin appointment, termination and several other things as stated in Guidelines of Appointment and Termination of Tok Batin / Penghulu of Aborigine 2011. Unfortunately, this Custom Law is not written formally. It has only been told and practiced from generations to generations.

Section 16(2), Aborigine People Act 1954 illustrated that the leader’s appointment system in the aborigine community is monitored by the authority when the minister has given full authority to terminate any leader appointed by the aborigine if they are found unsuitable. This legal requirement is still in line with the Custom Law which they believe in and it has been in their practice that the Tok Batin can be terminated at any time by the government when he is found to be unsuitable to hold the post for the specific and lawful reasons. It can be concluded here that the Aborigine People Act 1954 and the Custom Law practiced by the aborigine community at Bekok, Segamat is depending and complements one another.

Limitation and Study Forward
Since this is an experimental study, only one Tok Batin was interviewed. His experience as a Tok Batin is different from other Tok Batins in the surrounding villages. In our future study, we are going to conduct interviews with other Tok Batins from the same tribe but living in other districts in Johor.
